ASSABET STUDENTS PRODUCE COMMUNITY FOCUS VIDEO FOR CLINTON SAVINGS BANK

(CLINTON, Mass., May 29, 2018) – Clinton Savings Bank (clintonsavings.com) was remarkably impressed, once again, by the level of professionalism and quality of work conducted by the Assabet Valley Regional Technical School’s students on a video collaboration project.

Under the guidance of Assabet’s Lead Instructor of Design and Visual Communications, Deborah Harper, and Design and Visual Teacher, William May, the selected students, Gabe Morris, John Zouharis and Leo Zolli, produced a four minute video celebrating Clinton Savings Bank’s (CSB) engagement with local organizations making an impact in our region.

“Having had such a fantastic experience working with Clinton Savings Bank previously on the CSB Champions video, we were excited to present the work opportunity to a new group of students to aid the Bank in their latest multi-media vision.” Harper explains.

“The high level of skill and creativity that the Assabet Valley students have provided to us as a resource is invaluable. We take pride in being able to engage, support and provide opportunities to the youth of our community to realize their value today and in the future,” stated Ellen McGovern, Chief Marketing Officer at Clinton Savings Bank.

Upon completion of the video, Clinton Savings Bank was proud to present Assabet’s Design and Visual Communications Department with a donation of $500, as well as three $100 scholarships for producers, Gabe, John and Leo.
